

Villa in excellent construction quality in first occupancy in El Paso

El Barrial

C- 3258

The villa was completed in 2021, but has not yet been used. The German builder attached great importance to good quality according to German building standards, which you will encounter at every turn in the house: The walls were constructed from 30 cm thick Termoarcilla, comparable to the German Poroton brick, the windows and exterior doors are fitted with well-insulating windows and large pane spacing as well as electric shutters, the ceiling and floor are thermally insulated, and an additional air space in the roofs helps to provide excellent insulation. Although neither heating nor cooling will be necessary all year round due to the good construction, the installation of heat pumps in the bedrooms and living rooms is planned.

Although the design of the building is strongly orientated towards the classic Palmerian style with slightly offset structures and individual hipped roofs, the interior has a modern, spacious and bright floor plan that also meets mainland European living requirements. As is customary in the Canary Islands, you enter the very spacious and light-flooded living/dining kitchen. This has two further glass doors to the outside, so that the path with the coffee or tea cup to the east terrace for breakfast in the first morning sun or with the glass of water to the south terrace is always short. A small hallway leads to a study and two bedrooms, as well as a 'public' bathroom with a large walk-in shower. The master bedroom has its own bathroom on suite with a large walk-in shower and a dressing room with its own external door.

Around the villa, spacious terraces and walkways were laid out with Solnhofen sandstone, which is extremely popular on La Palma due to its light colour: it does not get hot even in strong sunlight and can therefore be enjoyed barefoot all year round. The area surrounding the house has been landscaped with gravel for easy maintenance, as there is another terrace as a car park, on which a carport could be erected, and a further flat area further down as a future orchard. This garden terrace has its own driveway with parking area so that, for example, garden waste can also be taken away by external service providers without having to enter the property.

The property is accessed via a good tarmac public road and is of course connected to the public electricity and drinking water network. The domestic hot water is heated by a solar thermal system. An internet connection has not yet been installed, but can be set up quickly and easily.

As this is a first-time occupancy, the property can be taken over at any time and is offered unfurnished.
